

Physics graduate education for the 21st Century

Physics graduate education is a critical phase in the development of students who pursue it. Unfortunately, it is often a missed opportunity to help students develop holistically. I will focus on how physics educators can embrace their role in preparing physics graduate students for the challenges and opportunities in the 21st century.